

Jai Dog Rescue is on a mission to transform the lives of street dogs in Thailand. Our holistic approach encompasses sterilization and vaccination (CNVR), emergency aid, rehabilitation, shelter, adoptions, and community outreach. With significant funding to expand our CNVR efforts, we're at a pivotal moment of growth, offering an exciting opportunity for an individual passionate about animal welfare to lead a major campaign that promises tangible and lasting results.

Position overview: Head of CNVR

As the Head of CNVR, you will play a pivotal role in the planning and execution of an ambitious, fast-growing, and impactful sterilization and vaccination campaign. This campaign aims to sterilize around 80,000 dogs in the Nakhon Nayok area over five years, establishing a network of CNVR Clinic teams and a mobile CNVR model to reach animals and communities in need.

Responsibilities

- Manage multiple teams of veterinary surgeons, vet nurses, dog catchers, and other members running fast-paced mobile CNVR clinics.
- Oversee the setup, deployment, and day-to-day operations of teams at various locations, such as local municipalities, schools, gymnasiums, and temple courtyards.
- Lead recruitment and training efforts for new team members.
- Ensure monthly targets are met, implementing effective systems for managing budgets, population surveys, reporting, and stock and inventory.
- Work collaboratively with local municipalities to secure suitable clinic locations.
- Coordinate daily booking schedules and ensure accurate data collection and recording.
- Conduct weekly stock checks and optimize stock management systems.
- Act as a liaison for Jai Dog Rescue, promoting our activities locally.
- Prepare monthly reports on CNVR activity and other necessary reports and presentations.
- Develop marketing and informational materials as required.
- Regularly review and enhance clinical practices and procedures across all teams.

Requirements

- Bachelor's degree or higher education.
- Valid driving license.
- Surgical or clinical environment experience preferred.
- Strong organizational and leadership skills.
- Excellent communication skills in English, working well with a diverse staff.
- Hardworking, self-motivated, and passionate about animal welfare.
- Competent use of MS Office or equivalent.

Salary and Benefits

- Full-time position with a 3-month initial probation.
- Attractive and competitive salary (TBD based on experience).
- 20 days paid annual leave.
- Annual salary review and discretionary bonus.
- 50% Social Security contribution.
